THE INCOME TAX (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2019

Explanatory Note

(These notes form no part of the Bill but are intended only to indicate its general purport)

This Bill seeks to amend the Income Tax Act, Chap. 75:01 to meet our international requirements coming out of Trinidad and Tobago's obligations under the Tax Information Exchange Agreement with the United States and the Global Forum.

The Bill first contains Preambulatory clauses which are required where a Bill seeks to infringe the fundamental rights guaranteed by section 4 of the Republican Constitution. Since the Bill would require the Board of Inland Revenue to share personal information on individuals in its possession with certain agencies, this amounts to an infringement of the right of a person to privacy and family life and as such, the Bill would contravene sections 4 and 5 of the Constitution. The Bill would therefore have to be passed in both Houses of Parliament with a three-fifths majority votes of all members as required by section 13(2) of the Republican Constitution.

Clause 1 of the Bill would provide for the short title of the Act, for which this is the Bill.

Clause 2 of the Bill would provide that the Act, for which this is the Bill, would have effect even though it is inconsistent with the Constitution.

Clause 3 of the Bill would provide for the interpretation of the word "Act".

Clause 4 of the Bill would introduce after section 4C a new clause 4D. The proposed new section 4D would empower the Board of Inland Revenue to provide taxpayer information to a foreign tax administration authority for the administration and enforcement of the domestic laws of another jurisdiction with which there is an arrangement for double taxation relief or exchange of information in relation to taxes.

Clause 5 of the Bill would seek to amend section 93(1) of the Act to include a new paragraph (c), which would provide that arrangements for double taxation entered into by Trinidad and Tobago with the Government of another Country and for which the President has made an Order may have effect in relation to income tax in so far as it provides for the collection by, sharing and receipt of information by the Board where required.

Clause 6 of the Bill recognizes that there are several secrecy provisions under the Data Protection Act which would prevent the sharing information in the possession of the Board. The Data Protection Act also restricts how information collected can be used and prevents the sharing with countries which do not have equivalent safeguards. The Bill now makes provision for sharing notwithstanding these privacy limitations. The clause goes on to provide, however that the Board cannot disclose information it receives with other agencies for non-taxation purposes where the country supplying the information has laws allowing for such sharing and with the consent of the country supplying the information. The clause also provides that where information is received under this Act, a person who discloses the information other than for the purposes of the Act commits an offence and the person is liable on summary conviction to a fine of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000.00) and imprisonment for three years and on conviction on indictment to a fine of five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000.00) and to imprisonment for five years.

Clause 7 of the Bill would amend section 117A of the Act. Section 117A was introduced as a consequential amendment to the Tax Information Exchange (United States of America) Act, 2017 to empower the Board to require—

- (a) financial information and other information; and
- (b) that a financial institution or an officer of the financial institution to appear before the Board to give evidence for the purpose of the Tax Information Exchange (United States of America) Act, 2017 and other enactments for a similar purpose.

Clause 8 of the Bill would amend section 117A of the Act. The OECD is of the view that Double Taxation Agreements do not fall into the category of “other enactments for a similar purpose” and it therefore becomes necessary to amend the section to allow Double Taxation Agreements to be included in the section. The clause therefore seeks to make such amendment.
