THE WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTION BILL, 2022

Explanatory Note

(These notes form no part of the Bill but are intended only to indicate its general purport.)

The purpose of this Bill is to combat corruption and other wrongdoings by encouraging and facilitating disclosures of improper conduct in the public and private sector, to protect persons making those disclosures from detrimental action, to provide for the matters disclosed to be investigated and dealt with and to provide for other matters connected therewith. The Bill would be inconsistent with sections 4 and 5 of the Constitution and is therefore required to be passed by a special majority of three-fifths of the members of each House.

Part I of the Bill would make certain preliminary provisions. Clause 1 would provide for the short title of the Act for which this is the Bill. Clause 2 would provide for the coming into force of the proposed Act on the date fixed by the President by Proclamation. Clause 3 would provide that the Act shall have effect though inconsistent with the Constitution. Clause 4 would define certain terms used in the proposed Act. Clause 5 would provide for the application of the proposed Act to disclosures of improper conduct, irrespective of whether the conduct occurred before or after the coming into force of the proposed Act. By clause 6, the proposed Act would bind the State.

Part II of the Bill would contain provisions relating to the making of disclosures of improper conduct by whistleblowers. Division 1 of this Part would provide for protected disclosures. By clause 7, the employee of an organisation would be able to make a disclosure of improper conduct within the organisation to a whistleblowing reporting officer within the organisation or a whistleblowing reports unit of a designated authority listed in the Schedule. A disclosure would need to be based on where an employee has reasonable grounds to believe that improper conduct has occurred, is occurring or is likely to occur in the organisation. A disclosure made by a member of Parliament would not amount to a breach of privilege. Further, a provision in a contract of employment would be voidable in so far as it purports to preclude the making of a disclosure.

Clause 8 would specify the conditions that would need to be complied with a disclosure to be regarded as a protected disclosure. Clause 9 would make it clear that the proposed Act does not authorise the disclosure of information protected by legal professional privilege and the disclosure of such information will not be a protected disclosure if it is made by a person to whom the information has been disclosed in the course of obtaining legal advice. By clause 10, an anonymous disclosure would not be a protected disclosure. However, if the identity of the person making an anonymous disclosure becomes known, the disclosure shall be deemed to be protected disclosure as if it had not been made anonymously.

Division 2 of Part II of the Bill would provide for internal disclosures. Clause 11 would require an employer to appoint whistleblowing reporting officers who would be responsible for receiving and processing internal disclosures of improper conduct within the employer's organisation, and for determining whether an internal disclosure should be referred for further investigation to a designated authority through its whistleblowing reports unit. Clause 12 would require an employer to establish and publish within his organisation internal procedures for dealing with disclosures.

Clause 13 would require whistleblowing officers to notify whistleblowers of the status of their respective disclosures within reasonable time, unless it is apparent that action has been taken to rectify or deal with the improper conduct disclosed. A whistleblowing reporting officer would be able to refer an internal disclosure to a designated authority through its whistleblowing reports unit for investigation, if the internal disclosure is a protected disclosure and leads to the detection of a criminal offence or other breach of the law. A whistleblowing reporting officer will be prohibited from revealing the identity of a whistleblower without his prior consent in writing.

Division 3 of Part II of the Bill would provide for external disclosures. Clause 14 would require a designated authority to have a whistleblowing reports unit consisting of a director and such other officers as are needed. The whistleblowing reports unit will be responsible for receiving and processing disclosures from whistleblowing reporting officers pertaining to matters that fall within the areas of responsibility of its designated authority. Clause 15 would provide for the circumstances under which these external disclosures could be made to a whistleblowing reports unit. Clause 16 will provide for the referral of protected disclosures by a whistleblowing reports unit to another whistleblowing reports unit. Clause 17 would provide for annual reports of the activities of the whistleblower reports unit to the Parliament.

Part III of the Bill provide for the protection of whistleblowers. Clause 18 would prohibit the taking of detrimental action against a whistleblower who has made a protected disclosure. Clause 19 would grant a whistleblower who makes a protected disclosure, immunity from criminal, civil and disciplinary proceedings. By clause 20, however, such immunity would not apply if the whistleblower was the perpetrator of, or an accomplice in, the improper conduct disclosed. Clause 21 would prohibit the disclosure of information which may lead to the identification of a whistleblower and restrict the communication of the contents of a disclosure between a whistleblowing reports unit and other departments within its designated authority. A designated authority would, however, be able to share information about its investigations with its whistleblowing reports units for the unit to determine whether it has any information relevant to an investigation. Clause 22 would provide for civil remedies where detrimental action is taken against the whistleblower.

Part IV of the Bill would provide for certain offences in clause 23 and for secrecy and confidentiality with respect to disclosures in clause 24. Clause 25 would prohibit the obstructing of whistleblowing reporting personnel in the performance of their duties. Clause 26 would make it an offence to destroy, falsify or conceal a document relating to disclosure.

Clause 27 would make any provision in a contract of service or other agreement between an employer and employee void in so far as it purports to exclude any provision of this Act or to preclude an employee from making a protected disclosure.

Clause 28 will enable the Minister to amend the Schedule, subject to affirmative resolution of Parliament.

Finally, clause 29 will enable the Minister to make regulations, subject to affirmative resolution of Parliament, to carry the proposed Act into effect.

PART II

DISCLOSURE OF IMPROPER CONDUCT

Division 1

Protected Disclosures

7. (1) An employee of an organisation may make a disclosure of improper conduct to a whistleblowing reporting officer or a whistleblowing reports unit where he has reasonable grounds to believe that improper conduct has occurred, is occurring or is likely to occur within the organisation.

(2) A disclosure under subsection (1) may be made—

- (a) although the employee is not able to identify a particular person to whom the disclosure relates;
- (b) although the improper conduct occurred before the coming into force of this Act;
- (c) in respect of information acquired by the employee while he was employed in the organisation; or
- (d) of any improper conduct of a person while that person was employed in the organisation.

(3) A disclosure under subsection (1) may be made orally or in writing.

(4) Where a disclosure is made orally, the officer receiving the disclosure shall—

- (a) reduce the disclosure immediately into writing in the presence of the person making the disclosure; and
- (b) read the written disclosure to the person who made it.

(5) Where a disclosure is reduced into writing, in accordance with subsection (4), the person who made the disclosure shall read the written disclosure and sign it.

(6) A disclosure made in relation to a member of Parliament shall not amount to a breach of privilege.

Protected disclosure

8. (1) A disclosure is a protected disclosure if—

- (a) it is made in accordance with section 7;
- (b) it is made in good faith;
- (c) at the time of making the disclosure, the whistleblower reasonably believes, based on the information he has at that time, that—
  - (i) the information disclosed, and any allegation contained in it, are substantially true; and
  - (ii) the information disclosed tends to show that his employer, another employee of his employer or a person acting on his employer's behalf has engaged, is engaging or is preparing to engage in improper conduct;
- (d) the disclosure is not made for purposes of personal gain;
- (e) in the case of an internal disclosure, it is made substantially in accordance with the internal procedures established under section 12(1); and
- (f) in the case of an external disclosure, the director of a whistleblowing reports unit concludes that a disclosure has been properly made under section 15(5).

(2) A disclosure is not a protected disclosure if the whistleblower discloses information which he knows, or ought reasonably to have known, is false.

9. A disclosure of information in respect of which a claim to legal professional privilege could be maintained in legal proceedings is not a protected disclosure if it is made by a person to whom the information has been disclosed in the course of obtaining legal advice.

10. (1) Subject to subsection (4), disclosure made anonymously is not a protected disclosure.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), a whistleblowing reporting officer or whistleblowing reports unit may receive and process an anonymous disclosure and may take the disclosure into account in determining whether improper conduct has occurred.

(3) Where a whistleblowing reporting officer or whistleblowing reports unit, after having taken into account all the relevant circumstances, considers that the information in an anonymous disclosure is likely to be defamatory or libellous, the officer or unit shall reject the information but keep a record of it in the event that the person who discloses the information becomes known and liable to criminal or civil proceedings.

(4) Where the identity of a person who makes an anonymous disclosure becomes known, the disclosure shall be deemed to be a protected disclosure if it would have been a protected disclosure if it had not been made anonymously.

Division 2

Internal Disclosures

11. (1) An employer shall appoint and keep in his employ such whistleblowing reporting officers as are required for the purposes of this Act.

(2) A whistleblowing reporting officer shall be responsible for—

- (a) receiving and processing internal disclosures of information about improper conduct committed within or by his employer's organisation; and

- (b) determining whether an internal disclosure should be referred for further investigation to a designated authority through its whistleblowing reports unit and the conditions under which the referral should take place.

Internal procedures for receiving and dealing with disclosures

12. (1) An employer shall have in operation internal procedures for receiving and dealing with disclosures relating to his organisation.

(2) Internal procedures referred to in subsection (1) shall identify the whistleblowing reporting officer within the organisation to whom an internal disclosure may be made.

(3) An employer shall publish and republish widely in his organisation and at regular intervals, the internal procedures referred to in subsection (1), and adequate information on how to use those procedures.

Notice to whistleblower

13. (1) Subject to subsection (2), a whistleblowing reporting officer shall, within thirty days after receiving an internal disclosure, notify the whistleblower of the status of the disclosure or such matters as may be prescribed.

(2) Where it is apparent that action has been taken to rectify or deal with the improper conduct disclosed in an internal disclosure, it shall not be necessary for the whistleblowing reporting officer to comply with subsection (1).

(3) Where an internal disclosure is a protected disclosure and leads to the detection of improper conduct which constitutes a criminal offence or a breach of the law, the whistleblowing reporting officer shall refer the internal disclosure to a designated authority, through its whistleblowing reports unit, for investigation.

(4) Where a whistleblowing reporting officer refers an internal disclosure under subsection (3), the whistleblowing reporting officer shall not disclose the identity of the whistleblower except with his prior consent in writing.

(5) A protected disclosure does not, by reason of its referral to a whistleblowing reports unit, cease to be a protected disclosure.

Division 3

External Disclosures

14. (1) A designated authority shall have a whistleblowing reports unit consisting of a director and such other officers as are required for the efficient performance of the functions of the unit. Setting up a whistleblowing reports unit

(2) A whistleblowing reports unit shall be responsible for receiving and processing external disclosures pertaining to the matters which fall within the areas of responsibility of its designated authority.

(3) The director of the whistleblowing reports unit shall be responsible for determining whether an external disclosure should be referred for further investigation to a designated authority and the conditions under which the referral should take place.

15. (1) An employee of an organisation may make an external disclosure to the whistleblowing reports unit of a designated authority if— External disclosure made to the whistleblowing reports unit

- (a) the organisation has no internal procedures established and published for receiving and dealing with disclosures relating to the organisation;
- (b) although an internal disclosure has previously been made, he has not been informed on the status of the disclosure, or it is reasonably evident to him that there has been no action or recommended action in relation to the disclosure within a reasonable time from the making of the disclosure; or
- (c) he believes on reasonable grounds—
  - (i) the whistleblowing reporting officer is, or may be involved in the alleged improper conduct;

- (ii) the whistleblowing reporting officer is, by reason of any relationship or association with a person who is, or may be involved in the improper conduct alleged in the disclosure, not a person to whom it is appropriate to make the disclosure;
- (iii) the head or senior officer of the organisation is, or may be involved in the improper conduct alleged in the disclosure;
- (iv) immediate reference to the whistleblowing reports unit is justified by the urgency of the matter to which the disclosure relates, or some other exceptional circumstances;
- (v) he will be subjected to detrimental action by his employer if he makes an internal disclosure; or
- (vi) it is likely that evidence relating to the improper conduct will be concealed or destroyed if he makes an internal disclosure.

(2) In determining for the purposes of subsection (1), whether it is reasonable for the whistleblower to make the disclosure to the whistleblowing reports unit, regard shall be had, in particular, to—

- (a) the seriousness of the alleged improper conduct;
- (b) whether the improper conduct is continuing or is likely to occur in the future;
- (c) whether the disclosure is made in breach of a duty of confidentiality owed by the employee to any other person;

- (d) in a case falling within subsection (1)(b), any action which the employer has taken or might reasonably be expected to have taken as a result of the previous disclosure; and
- (e) whether in making the disclosure to the whistleblowing reports unit, the employee complied with internal procedures referred to in section 12(1).

(3) Where a person makes a disclosure to a whistleblowing reports unit, the director of the whistleblowing reports unit shall, within forty-five days after receiving the disclosure, consider and reach a conclusion as to whether it is appropriate for the disclosure to be made externally.

(4) Where the director of a whistleblowing reports unit concludes that a disclosure should not have been made externally, he shall, within a reasonable time, not exceeding forty-five days, notify in writing the whistleblower that an internal disclosure in accordance with Division 2 of this Part should be made and that the whistleblowing reports unit will not be dealing further with the disclosure.

(5) Where the director of a whistleblowing reports unit concludes that a disclosure has been properly made, he shall, within a reasonable time notify in writing the whistleblower of the status of the disclosure or such matters as may be prescribed.

16. (1) Where a whistleblowing reports unit to whom a protected disclosure is made considers that the disclosure can be better processed by another whistleblowing reports unit, the whistleblowing reports unit to whom the disclosure is made may, within not more than thirty days and with the consent of the whistleblower, refer the disclosure to that other whistleblowing reports unit.

Reference of information to another authority

(2) Where a whistleblowing reports unit refers a protected disclosure under subsection (1), the unit shall not disclose the identity of the whistleblower except with his prior consent in writing.

(3) A protected disclosure does not, by reason of its referral to another whistleblowing reports unit, cease to be a protected disclosure.

Annual Report to Parliament

17. (1) The director of a whistleblowing reports unit shall, not later than 31st March in each year, submit a report to the Minister on the activities of the whistleblowing reports unit during the preceding year, so, however, that the report shall not disclose particulars of any disclosures filed with the whistleblowing reports unit.

(2) The Minister shall lay a report submitted under subsection (1) in the Senate and the House of Representatives not later than 31st May in each year.

PART III

PROTECTION ON WHISTLEBLOWERS

Prohibition of detrimental action

18. Subject to the exceptions provided for in this Act, despite any prohibition of, or restriction on, the disclosure of information under any written law, rule of law, contract, oath or practice, a whistleblower shall not be subjected to detrimental action on account of his having made a protected disclosure.

Immunity from criminal, civil and disciplinary proceedings

19. (1) Notwithstanding any other law, but subject to section 20(1), a whistleblower who makes a protected disclosure is not liable to any criminal, civil or disciplinary proceedings for having made such a disclosure.

(2) Whistleblower protection shall not be prejudiced on the basis that—

- (a) the whistleblower was in good faith, mistaken about the importance of the disclosure;

- (b) any perceived threat to the public interest on which the disclosure was based has not materialised; or
- (c) the whistleblower has not fully respected the procedural requirements of this Act or of any regulations or guidelines made under this Act.

20. (1) Subject to subsection (3), nothing in this Part shall prevent the institution of criminal proceedings against a whistleblower, where the whistleblower was the perpetrator of, or an accomplice in, any improper conduct—

No immunity to whistleblower if he was the perpetrator or an accomplice

- (a) to which the disclosure relates; and
- (b) which constitutes a criminal offence.

(2) Subject to subsections (4) and (5), nothing in this Part shall prevent the institution of civil or disciplinary proceedings against a whistleblower, where the proceedings arise from the conduct of the whistleblower, other than the making of a protected disclosure.

(3) In any criminal proceedings instituted against a whistleblower based on the fact that the whistleblower was the perpetrator of, or an accomplice in, the improper conduct disclosed by the whistleblower, the court shall, in giving its judgment or decision, take into due account—

- (a) the fact that the disclosure was made by the whistleblower; and
- (b) whether the whistleblower has assisted the police to apprehend any other person involved in the commission of an offence, and the punishment of the whistleblower may be mitigated or remitted, as the court thinks fit, and the court shall expressly refer to this subsection in its judgment or decision.

(4) In any civil proceedings instituted against a whistleblower based on the fact that the whistleblower was the perpetrator of, or was an accomplice in, the improper conduct disclosed by the whistleblower, the court may, if it finds that the whistleblower is responsible for the payment of damages, only hold him liable for such part of the damage as he may have caused and not hold him liable jointly and severally with others.

(5) Where a whistleblower is an employee of a public body and disciplinary proceedings are instituted against him based on the fact that he was the perpetrator of, or an accomplice in, the improper conduct disclosed by him, the public body shall—

- (a) endeavour to mitigate the effects of any punishment; and
- (b) where possible, not seek the dismissal of the whistleblower as punishment.

Prohibition of disclosure of information to identify the whistleblower

21. (1) A whistleblowing reporting officer or whistleblowing reports unit to whom a protected disclosure is made or referred shall not disclose information that identifies or may lead to the identification of the whistleblower, unless the whistleblower expressly consents in writing to the disclosure of that information.

(2) A whistleblowing reports unit shall not communicate the contents of a disclosure to other departments within its designated authority, until it has duly investigated the disclosure and it has established that it is necessary or expedient in the public interest for further investigation to be carried out by the appropriate department or by the police or any other body with investigative, prosecutorial or regulatory powers, in relation to any improper conduct which constitutes a criminal offence or breach of a law.

(3) Notwithstanding any other law, a designated authority shall not be restricted in any manner in sharing information about its investigation with its whistleblowing reports unit, for the whistleblowing reports unit to determine whether it has any relevant information on the subject matter under investigation.

(4) Guidelines may be issued by each designated authority setting out—

- (a) the duties of communication between the whistleblowing reports unit and the whistleblower and the restrictions thereon; and
- (b) the rules for disclosure to other departments of the designated authority or to other designated authorities.

22. (1) A whistleblower who believes that detrimental action has been, or is likely to be taken against him in breach of section 18, may apply to the High Court for— Civil remedies for detrimental action

- (a) an order requiring the person who has taken the detrimental action to remedy that action;
- (b) an injunction; or
- (c) any other relief as the court thinks fit.

(2) The High Court, pending the final determination of an application under this section may—

- (a) make an interim order;
- (b) grant an interim injunction; or
- (c) grant any other relief as the court thinks fit.

(3) If, in determining an application under subsection (2), the High Court is satisfied that a person has taken or intends to take detrimental action against a whistleblower in breach of section 18, the High Court may—

- (a) order the person who took the detrimental action to remedy that action and determine the amount of damages due to the person who suffered the detrimental action;

- (b) grant an injunction in such terms as the High Court considers appropriate; or
- (c) grant any other relief as the High Court thinks fit.

(4) Any person who may have suffered detrimental action as a result of making a protected disclosure shall, without prejudice to any other right under any other law, have a right to compensation for any loss or damage sustained as a consequence of the detrimental action.

PART IV MISCELLANEOUS

Offences

23. (1) A person commits an offence if he—

- (a) knowingly prevents, restrains or restricts any person from making an internal or external disclosure;
- (b) knowingly intimidates any person who intends to make an internal or external disclosure or who has made a protected disclosure;
- (c) knowingly induces any person by threats, promises or otherwise to contravene this Act;
- (d) being an employer, knowingly subjects any person to detrimental action as a consequence of the person making a protected disclosure; or
- (e) purports to make a disclosure under this Act knowing that it contains a statement that is false or misleading, or being reckless as to whether the statement is false or misleading.

(2) A person who commits an offence under subsection (1) is liable on—

- (a) summary conviction to a fine of fifteen thousand dollars and to imprisonment for two years; or

- (b) conviction on indictment to a fine of fifty thousand dollars and to imprisonment of ten years.

24. (1) A person receiving, investigating or otherwise dealing with a disclosure under this Act shall regard and deal with the disclosure as secret and confidential—

- (a) the identity of the person making the disclosure and any disclosure made; and
- (b) any statement given, or document, information or thing provided, to the person in the carrying out of an investigation, except that any statement given, or document, information or thing provided, in furtherance of an investigation or any legal or disciplinary proceedings, shall not be regarded as being inconsistent with the obligation for secrecy and confidentiality.

(2) A person who contravenes subsection (1) commits an offence and is liable upon summary conviction to a fine of six hundred thousand dollars and to imprisonment for two years.

25. A person who obstructs a whistleblowing reporting officer or director or other officer of a whistleblowing reports unit in the performance of his duties under this Act commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of fifteen thousand dollars and to imprisonment for two years.

26. A person who, knowing that a document or thing is relevant to a disclosure or the processing of a disclosure under this Act—

- (a) destroys, mutilates or alters the document or thing;
- (b) falsifies the document or makes a false document;
- (c) conceals the document or thing; or

(d) directs, counsels or causes, in any manner, a person to do anything mentioned in paragraphs (a) to (c), commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of thirty thousand dollars and to imprisonment for five years.

Conflict between contract of service and the provisions of this Act

27. Any provision in a contract of service or other agreement between an employer and an employee is void in so far as it—

(a) purports to exclude any provision of this Act, including an agreement to refrain from instituting or continuing any proceedings under this Act; or

(b) purports to preclude the employee or has the effect of discouraging the employee from making a protected disclosure.

Amendment of Schedule

28. The Minister may, by Order subject to affirmative resolution of Parliament, amend the Schedule.

Regulations

29. (1) The Minister may make such regulations as may be necessary or expedient for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

(2) Regulations made under subsection (1) shall be subject to affirmative resolution of Parliament.

(3) Regulations made under this section may provide that the contravention of any regulation constitutes an offence and may prescribe penalties for any offence not exceeding a fine of fifty thousand dollars and imprisonment for two years.
